New CSBA instructional materials adoption resources available

CSBA's Research and Education Policy Development team has published a new brief, "Instructional Materials Adoptions: State and Local Governing Board Processes, Roles, and Responsibilities," which details the importance of high-quality instructional materials for student learning, provides crucial information about the legal requirements enacted by Assembly Bill 1078, and looks at upcoming adoptions related to California's new Mathematics Framework. A pair of supplemental fact sheets accompanying the brief outline the state's role versus that of the local governance team in the instructional materials development and adoption process.

Summer program planning resources available

Now is the time to start planning local educational agency summer programs and the Partnership for Children & Youth is offering a Summer Game Plan webinar series dedicated to guiding LEAs through the intricacies of developing and implementing top-tier summer learning programs. Feeling safe, supported, and engaged are fundamental preconditions for any child to learn and develop successfully. Summer learning programs are more important than ever as students, schools and communities are still recovering from the negative impacts of school closures and pandemic trauma on students' academic progress and social-emotional skills. Summer programs offer an opportunity for fun, community building, exploration and learning in ways both different from, and complementary to, the school-year experience. Learn how your LEA can focus on developing the academic, social-emotional and physical needs and interests of students through hands-on, engaging summer learning experiences.
