WHEREAS, schools in California and nationwide have the potential to effect positive, tangible environmental change while preparing students — in their careers and civic life — to be stewards of their communities, the earth and its resources; and

WHEREAS, there is broad consensus within the scientific community that human activities contribute to increases in greenhouse gas emissions; and

WHEREAS, climate change is a non-partisan issue and local, state and national policies should be guided by the best available science; and

WHEREAS, climate change presents a series of governance-related challenges for public agencies, including school districts and county offices of education; and

WHEREAS, climate change is a global issue that can and should be addressed locally; and

WHEREAS, California's Fourth Climate Assessment estimates that if greenhouse gas emissions are not reduced, the average water supply from California's snowpack is projected to decline to 2/3 of historical levels by 2050 and total sea level rise by 2100 is expected to be 54 inches; and

WHEREAS, the Fourth Climate Assessment also finds that action to reduce greenhouse gas emissions which also release criteria air pollutants, including particulate matter, nitrous oxides and volatile organic compounds — will indirectly improve California's air quality; and

WHEREAS, the California Global Warming Solutions Act of 2016 (Senate Bill 32), called for a reduction of statewide greenhouse gas emissions to 40 percent below 1990 levels by 2030, yet current projections show California is unlikely to reach the target at the current rate; and

WHEREAS, California's agricultural contributions to the U.S. and world economy are impacted by consequences of climate change; and

WHEREAS, the negative impacts of climate change, including public health and economic consequences, have a disproportionate impact on chronically underserved communities; and

WHEREAS, the implementation of the Next Generation Science Standards provides an opportunity for students to engage in real-world inquiry and application of science skills in understanding and addressing climate change; and

WHEREAS, the clean energy sector presents economic opportunity for students and the local economy; and

WHEREAS, implementation of sustainable practices on school campuses, capital investments to improve energy efficiency, and other environmentally mindful purchasing decisions can yield significant cost savings for our schools; and

WHEREAS, climate change adaptations of school infrastructure and practices can mitigate the risk of increased natural disasters; and

WHEREAS, environmental initiatives can yield benefits for communities such as safe and healthy transportation to and from school, improved air and water quality, workforce development; and

WHEREAS, California's children and youth have demonstrated leadership and expressed an expectation that their representatives will advocate for their communities' well-being; and

WHEREAS, California students across many grade levels — including those in their early elementary years and all the way up through high school — strive to be environmentally conscious in their daily lives and to be active and engaged leaders on combating global climate change in their community, both now and in the future;
